DESIGN ETHOS

As an Urban Designer and Architect , my principal focus is on the human experience, creating places with a vision that are meaningful to people. In every aspect. I craft the attributes that make places memorable, sustainable and attractive and commercially succesful. I have a particular skill working with the ground plane and how buildings and places connect with their context. I am proud to create enduring and beloved environments.

I am passionate about urban re-generation. For me, architecture and Urban Design go hand and hand. City Making and City Shaping is not exclusive to either discipline. What is essential, is creating places that enrich connections at every scale.

Great cities and their places are the product of robust dialogue and exchange between public officials, advisors, investors, creatives, operators and end-users.This combination of interests, when expertly orchestrated delivers multi-generational, sustainable and commercial value.

These are the drivers for my contribution to design and advisory.

PERSONAL QUALITIES

- Rapidly build strong rapport with people from diverse backgrounds, contexts and experiences.
- Provide effective and constructive guidance in design reviews, minimising resistance and rapidly equipping participants to refine design.
- Passion for conceptual, commercial and practical solutions - able to balance competing needs.
- Able to rapidly see the wood for the trees' and vice versa, diagnosing tactical changes at the urban and/or architectural scale for the 'greater good'.
- A professional commitment and passion to 'give back', in addition with corporate project work, and make enduring contributions that profoundly improve community, commercial and public realm.
